

Use of the HIV Mutation Database Web service

1. EMBL requires attribution for its service.
2. Any use of the HIV Mutation database is non-confidential.
3. Users of HIV Mutation Database Online agree not to attempt to use any part of the EMBL computers, files or networks apart from through the service interfaces provided.
4. EMBL does not guarantee the accuracy of any data contained herein, nor the suitability of the HIV Mutation database web service for any purpose.
5. If any single user exploits the HIV Mutation database web service to a level that prevents, or looks set to prevent, the EMBL providing services to others, the EMBL may discontinue service to that user. The EMBL will then contact the user to discuss their needs and how (and if) these can be met.
6. For planning and scientific review purposes, EMBL will keep records of usage. EMBL may make information about the total volume of usage available to the publishing house who provided the content. EMBL may also make information about the total volume of usage the HIV Mutation database web service to third parties who supply the software or relevant other resources. Logs of usage may also be maintained for the purposes of monitoring and improving services, and measuring the impact a particular service has on our resources.
7. EMBL will make reasonable effort to maintain continuity of service and provide adequate warning of any changes or discontinuities. However, EMBL accepts no responsibility for the consequences of any temporary or permanent discontinuity in service.
8. EMBL itself places no restrictions on the use or redistribution of the data available via its the HIV Mutation database service. However, the original data may be subject to patent, copyright, or other intellectual property rights claimed by third parties. It is the responsibility of users of the service to ensure that their exploitation of the data does not infringe the rights of such third parties. EMBL can neither comment on the validity of their claims nor grant unrestricted permission regarding the use of the data.
9. Any feedback on the service is welcome.
10. EMBL is not liable to you or third parties claiming through you, for any loss or damage.
11. EMBL reserves the right to alter these terms at any time in order to ensure their appropriateness to the EMBL mission.